The Chronicle and Directory, for 1871, connection there is between the Gambling Houses and the Macao passage-boat, that one of their informers should be found initiating men there?

THIS Work, now in the NINTH year of its existence will be published as early as practicable after the close of the current year.

It will be compiled and printed at the Daily Press Office, as usual, from the best and most authentic sources, and no pains will be spared to make the work complete in all respects.

In addition to the usual varied and voluminous information, the value of the "Chronicle" and "Directory" for 1871" will be further augmented by the addition of a Chromo-lithograph plate of the NEW CODE OF SIGNALS in use at the Peak; also of the various HOUSE FLAGS; a MAP OF HONGKONG; and a CHART OF THE COAST; besides other local information and statistics corrected to date of publication, tending to make this work the code nucleus for all Public, Mercantile and General Offices.

The Publisher requests that those persons who have not yet returned the printed forms which have been sent to them to fill up, will be good enough to do so without delay. Any persons who have recently arrived, and to whom printed forms have not been sent, are respectfully requested to forward their names and addresses as early as possible for insertion.

The Daily Press

HONGKONG, DECEMBER 12TH, 1870.

The expulsion of the North German subjects from Saigon, of which mention was made on Saturday, cannot but be considered a matter for much regret. It is difficult to see what practical good can be worked by the measure, while its evil effects in tending to create warm blood in a distant part of the world, where it is most desirable that foreigners should not appear before the native population as divided among themselves, cannot be overlooked. The supposition that the few Germans in Saigon would be likely to cause any disturbance in the place, is too ridiculous to be entertained. Twenty-five or thirty traders in a Colony guarded by two thousand trained troops could not have caused any apprehension to the most timid, so that, upon this ground, there could be no reason for the step. The only other valid reason for the measure, might be found in the possibility of information being conveyed which might be of a dangerous nature. But all the information that could possibly be sent from a small place like Saigon, could scarcely be of any importance as to the issue of events; as, if Prussia has any designs against Saigon, it is not likely that she would enter upon active hostilities, but would simply endeavour to carry them out by negotiation. Further, it cannot but be an impolitic step to give any opportunity for dragging Saigon into the questions, which must be long to settled between the two nations; while the effect of the measure on the commercial interests of the place can hardly be over-estimated.

All these circumstances combine to make the step one deeply to be regretted, and it becomes a wonder how people, usually as far sighted as the French, can have committed such an error. It appears probable that it has not originated alone, if at all, with the Governor, who has the credit of being a shrewd, careful and temperate man. It is to be feared that the popular influence under the newly assumed republican institutions was too strong to be resisted, and that the authorities have been thus induced to adopt a measure against what, it may fairly be imagined, their own better judgment dictated.

It is really painful to be compelled to allude over and over again to the same public abuses in Hongkong in almost the same words; but, when it is found that they are repeatedly recurring, and that, so far from the Government taking any steps to remedy them, they appear only anxious to bush them up, nothing is left but to make a point of calling attention to them, whenever they come afresh before the public. On Saturday the report of a case at the Magistracy, was given, which displays in a most painful manner the working of the "informer system" in Hongkong. The matter is briefly related. One of the employees of one of Mr. Caldwell's informers was convicted of having trumped up an entirely false charge against a Chinaman, who was about to leave in a Macao passage-boat. It seems that the informer went on to the junk, and demanded that one of the men should come on board with him, or if not, should give him his jacket. A scuffle ensued, which resulted in the former getting hold of the man whom he had endeavoured to squeeze, giving him in charge of a Chinese Police Sergeant, and then bringing a false accusation against him at the Magistracy. Mr. Russell, after a careful investigation of the facts, sentenced the informer to twelve months' imprisonment with hard labour, and ordered that he should afterwards find security in $200. This sentence will no doubt meet the approval of the public, and it is to be hoped that the like severity will be shown in all cases of the kind.

The circumstances which are brought to light, however, are of the most serious description. We here find that the Chinese in Hongkong are pestered by rascals utterly removed from the shadow of control. The man just convicted was not even one of Mr. Caldwell's informers, but was actually an employee of a man employed by him, and of whom he had no knowledge whatever. Is this not a disgraceful state of affairs? It is useless to say more with regard to it. We are sick of the subject, and the public must be sick of reading of it. But it is conceivable that the Government of Hongkong will allow this monstrous abuse to go on without making the most strenuous efforts to put an end to it. One word, however, must be said. It has been stated that the runners in Mr. Caldwell's employ are only used to assist the Gambling Farmer in the superintendence of the Hells. Can any one say what was not proved to his mind, though there could be no question that Mr. Linstead's impression was that it had been concocted. It was probably taken great pain in this letter to "convince" the "Chief" in the Article, he must place a reasonable construction upon it. Judgment for $250 and costs.

NATIONALITY.

To THE EDITOR OF THE "DAILY PRESS." Sir—I have read with interest two communications which have appeared recently in your columns, and if I mistake not, the writer is larger than his text implies. He speaks, in fact, to show that Europe is shortly, or all events, ultimately, to consist of only a small number of nationalities, corresponding to the limited number of states which are to be found in your paper, to indicate some of the points on which, for my part, I should like to see further argument.

In the first place, I want to know why the absorption of nationalities into races is to stop where it is assumed to begin. Let us suppose that a corner of the world can either be very full or influence in any way the judgment which the Supreme Apostolic Judge, Time, alone, has authority to pronounce. In your paper, to indicate the most advanced section of the advanced party, and, yet, the conservative traditions which would naturally belong to a noble ruler identified that his action will be hasty or precipitate, and that the consequences will be most calamitous.

My idea, which I give for what it may be worth, is that a nation consists of many men who have banded themselves together on the supposition that it is for their safety and convenience to do so, and that the leading feature of nationality is the tendency of races to form vast nationalities including all the previous nationalities of the same race?

The next point which occurs to me is really to inquire what may by mean by a nation?

My idea, which I give for what it may be worth, is that a nation consists of many men who have banded themselves together on the supposition that it is for their safety and convenience to do so, and that the leading feature of nationality is the tendency of races to form vast nationalities including all the previous nationalities of the same race?

In the twentieth place, I want to know why the absorption of nationalities into races is to stop where it is assumed to begin. Let us suppose that a corner of the world can either be very full or influence in any way the judgment which the Supreme Apostolic Judge, Time, alone, has authority to pronounce. In your paper, to indicate the most advanced section of the advanced party, and, yet, the conservative traditions which would naturally belong to a noble ruler identified that his action will be hasty or precipitate, and that the consequences will be most calamitous.

THIS PAGE IS FOR YOU.

The Mouse runs red with slaughter, and we

Fare as though leaves, by Autumn's whistling breeze.

Our people are shattered; and our hopes are blown.

And the white war-smoke veils with sulphur,

our pale faces.

The south-thrusts of the German-vanquished,

Gave.

But not in vain we perish! not in vain

Fair France, our woe-worn Mother, shapes

her slum.

While her hot tears drop heavily o'er all!

After the battle, and the bitter array,

The dead, the fallen, and the slain array,

Him whose strength was but a splendid name.

The visionary phantom of a day:

For France must lead, not crouch, and free

From blurr, forsoothings of the future—

YES, FOR YOU,

Covered with the crimson and sores caused by the perfidious blood, here is a bandy that never fails, that purges out the foul master from the whole body—it is BRISTOL'S SASSAFRILLA.

YES, FOR YOU,

Who have so long been suffering with the burning, stinging pains of Cancer, destroying your peace and comfort in life, and filling you

with gloomy forebodings of the future—

YES, FOR YOU,

Affected sufferer with Tumor, enlarging day by day before your eyes, and every day assuming to be received with deep sorrow by many in this country, as by his friends and relations, who will be at once and freely BRISTOL'S SASSAFRILLA.

YES, FOR YOU,

Whose head is covered with the loathsome

sores and ulcerous

agents of Death, and to accomplish a revolution which would have changed the destiny of the United States.

Six years passed by, and then we heard that he was dying of an incurable disease, when the collapse of the European Armies announced that General Robert E. Lee is dead, will bring the end sooner or later, do not delay

to seek a cure.

A man is but a few years

since Robert Lee ranked among the great men of the present time. It was the able soldier of the Southern Confederacy, the bulwark of her Northern frontier, the obstacle to the success of the rebellion, and was then captured by the capture of Washington, to turn the tide of success, and to accomplish a revolution which would have changed the destiny of the United States.
